MAPS OF THE CITY AT 11 MECHANIC ST

PREFACE.

The twelve months last past has wrought but slight changes in the general affairs of the city. The business outlook appears brighter, and hope is entertained that with this Centennial year matters may resume their wonted activity. The population has increased but little over the city census of 1875, owing to the continued depressed state of business and the migratory habits of its operatives. The Newark Exhibition of Industries was held during the past year, presenting, as always, its instructive, elevating and refining influence to all classes of citizens. May this, as a great educator of the people, the fruit of honest toil, the nation's strength, be permitted annually. This year, however, owing to the concentration of all interests in the "Centennial," no exhibition will be held. It is gratifying to know that the benefits of these exhibitions of industries are becoming to be more fully appreciated by the people.

In reference to this work, we are compelled to again allude to the many difficulties encountered, in perfecting it. Repeatedly have we set forth the aversion many have to their whereabouts being made known, going so far as to appeal personally at this office. To these obstacles we would add a still greater, i. e., the difference in time of removal in this and surrounding cities. In Newark the removal day is April 1st, while in other places the removal day is May 1st, hence, about the time this work is issued strangers come into the city and other removals take their place which it is impossible to record. We trust citizens will note this fact and lend their influence not only to spare criticism, but to correct this difficulty by having the removal day made uniform with other places, and that in a much more genial season than is 1st of April. No expense or pains are spared to render this work in the highest degree reliable, and to that end the co operation of citizens is cordially invited.

The Appendix, pp 825 to 932, will be found matters of interest connected with Newark, the Governments of the several surrounding Townships, p 925; the State, p 872; the United States, p 858; the Federal, State and County Courts, p 865; also New York matters, p 932.

The Business Directory is added as usual, p 933. The Advertisements are pagged, exhibiting to the strangers the whereabouts and facilities of those in business.

A full and complete Index to various matters and branches of business on next page.

Holbrook's Map of Newark, with the latest corrections, similar to that accompanying this work, may be found at the book stores, or at the Directory Office, No 11 Mechanic Street.

For “Index to Advertisements,” see p. 6.

Post Money Orders, for sums not exceeding $50, each order can be obtained at the principal post offices throughout the country. The use of these orders, by persons who desire to make remittances by mail, is far preferable to sending money, even when the letter containing it is registered. By the money order system, absolute security against loss is obtained. Money orders are good for one year from the date of issue. In case of their loss, no charge is made for the issue of duplicates. Persons sending money orders should be careful never to send them in a letter which contains the name of the person from whom they are sent. This is necessary in order to guard against loss in case the letter should fall into improper hands; money orders never being paid to any person who cannot tell the name of the party to whom they were issued.

As letters are frequently dropped in the letter boxes insufficiently paid, persons who are not certain in regard to weight, rates, etc., would do well to inquire of the Stamp Clerk before mailing them. If sent to the Dead Letter offices they are delayed two or three mails.

THE EARLY GOVERNMENT OF NEW JERSEY.

The government of New Jersey was first established by the proprietors, Lord John Berkley and Sir George Carteret, the parchment constitution bearing the date of February 10, 1664. This government continued until the division into East and West Jersey, 1676. Robert Barclay was appointed Governor of East Jersey by the proprietors for life, in 1682, and immediately by deputy convened an assembly elected by the people, which sat again in 1686, in 1688, and afterwards at irregular intervals. In West Jersey some of the Governors were appointed by the proprietors, and others by the Legislature, the latter body appointing also the other governmental officers.

In 1702 upon the assumption of the government by the Queen of England, a governor of the Province of Nova Cæsarea or New Jersey was appointed by the crown, to hold office at the pleasure of the sovereign. The Governor was assisted by twelve counselors, appointed by the crown and occasionally by himself, six from East and six from West Jersey, any five to make a quorum. The General Assembly consisted of two, elected by the inhabitants and householders of the town of Perth Amboy, and ten by the freeholders of East Jersey; two by the inhabitants and householders of the town of Burlington, and ten by the freeholders of West Jersey. In 1709 an act was passed reciting that the constitution was inconvenient, and enacting that the majority of the votes of the freeholders of each county worth fifty pounds or owning one hundred acres of land be taken to elect representatives, who should be worth five hundred pounds or possessed of one thousand acres of land. Two were to be elected for Perth Amboy, and two for each of the then five counties of East Jersey, two for each of the towns of Burlington and Salem, and two for each of the then four counties of West Jersey. Hunterdon county, though established in 1714, continued to send representatives in conjunction with Burlington till 1727, when it was authorized to send two, and Salem town was deprived of its separate representation. Cumberland county was set off from Salem in 1747, but continued to elect representatives as before until 1768, when two additional members were added from Morris county, two from Cumberland, and two from Sussex.

In 1725 the first formal polls were opened, and a clerk was appointed to take down each voter's name, the Sheriff being ordered to keep the poll open from day to day till all had entered their names. One polling place alone was in each county, and in 1789, when East and West Jersey contended as to whether the temporary seat of Government should be at Philadelphia or New York, the polls were kept open three or four weeks. Voting by ballot was first introduced in 1779, was discontinued during the war, restored in several counties in 1783, required by law in 1790, but was not universal till 1797. There were twenty-two assemblies from the surrender to the Revolution, some continuing longer than one year, and one from 1761 to 1769, eight years. The assemblies sometimes met five or six times within a year, and once never convened for 10 years.

In 1774 the assembly called upon Governor Franklin to convene the Legislature for the purpose of appointing delegates to a general congress of the colonies to meet in Philadelphia. On his refusing to do so, a meeting of the people of Essex county was held at Newark in June, when notice was sent to the other counties to send delegates to a general committee to meet at New Brunswick in July. This general committee did meet, and sent five delegates to the General Congress. In the next meeting of the assembly the Governor strongly condemned the congress, but the Assembly elected five delegates notwithstanding to attend at the next meeting of the congress. A Provincial Congress of New Jersey also met in Trenton May 23, 1775, and proceeded to aid the Revolution.

On the 12th of August, 1775, the Provincial Congress enacted that all inhabitants worth fifty pounds in real or personal estate should meet at their county court house on the 21st of September, and choose any number not exceeding five to represent them in the Provincial Congress to be held at Trenton, October 3d next ensuing. The regular assembly met in November of the same year for the last time, but did not attempt to interfere with the Provincial Congress, and being prorogued by the Governor until January 3d, failed to appear on that day. Governor Franklin then ordered them to appear in the name of the King, but the Provincial Congress vetoed that measure, and in return arrested the Governor and sent him a prisoner to Connecticut.

On June 18th, 1776, the Provincial Congress ratified the Declaration of Independence, and the next day adopted the name of the "Convention of the State of New Jersey." The new Legislature met at Princeton on August 27th following, and continued in session till the 8th day of October, choosing in joint meeting, William Livingston, Governor.
